

ARIP BODY NOW TO TAKE UP IMPORTANT DUTIES

Organization of Commission Is Reshaped—Adopt Rules of Procedure.

BY LOUIS LUDLOW.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 1.—The United States tariff commission is about to become a real vital factor in American economic lines. It will soon be ready to take up the new and important duties imposed on it by the Fordney-McCumber tariff act.

It has completely reshaped its organization and has reached agreement on the expansion that shall be made as soon as the needed funds are provided by congress. It also has adopted rules of future procedure, which set forth how applications for investigations shall be presented and under what conditions and in what manner the commission will conduct formal investigations upon which the president, under the flexible provisions of the tariff law, may change not only rates and classifications but the basis of valuation. These rules, which have been approved by the president, will be promulgated soon.

In view of the commission's progress in the five weeks since the tariff act was approved it is thought that actual operations looking to changes of rates will be under way by Nov. 15. The commission's next step will be to examine the applications for hearings, already on file, and to determine which schedule of the law shall first be considered. It is generally thought that either wool, sugar or chemicals and dyes will command earliest consideration.

Demands Varied.

Not all applications on file ask for higher rates than those carried in the law. Perhaps one-half of the applications demand a revision downward. Importers of dyestuffs have attacked the new rates as prohibitive and have filed with their application statements of several manufacturers to the effect that the low or priced colors are more than adequately protected. Importers of Cuban sugar also have asked for a reduction of sugar rates to those of the farmers' emergency law.

In pointing out that the president's power to raise or lower rates within a limit of 50 percent may be exercised only after the tariff commission has made investigation, members of the commission made it clear that they are not required to conduct all investigations applied for. Any one may file an application but it will be for the commission to determine whether sufficient charges are made to justify action looking to changes. The members also pointed out that they may order a formal investigation upon their own initiative, as well as upon application, and the stress with which this provision of the law was emphasized, was believed that the commission may lead off in two or three weeks with an investigation based on information gathered by the commission during the tariff controversy in congress and ignored by the finance committee of the senate in drafting the house bill.

To Defend Provisions.

The commission is prepared to defend the elastic provisions of the new law against the attack of unconstitutionality which is being made from certain quarters on the ground that they transfer legislative power from congress to the executive. The contention of the commission is that congress merely laid down a definite rule for the guidance of the executive and left to the executive simply the finding of the facts and the application of the rule. This quotation of the United States supreme court was cited by William S. Culbertson, vice-chairman of the commission, in a recent speech: "The legislature cannot delegate its power to make a law, but it can make a law to delegate a power to determine some fact or state of things upon which the law makes, or intends to make, its own action depend."

Voters Loyal To Bingham In Race for Court Bench

J. FRED BINGHAM.

The candidacy of J. Fred Bingham for judge of the Superior court, as a successor to Judge Chester Montgomery is receiving the support of those who believe that the bench should be divorced from partisan politics and that selections should be based upon the question of outstanding fitness and merit.

Mr. Bingham was born in Mishawaka and has lived his entire life in this country. Graduating from the University of Michigan in 1903, he entered the practice of law with his father, E. Volney Bingham and his brother, C. W. Bingham and has been actively engaged in practice since his admission to the bar.

E. Volney Bingham was one of the pioneer lawyers of this county.

Having practiced law here for about 50 years prior to his death April 23, 1922. He was one of the oldest and best known members of the bar and until a few years ago was one of the most active lawyers in this locality.

He was an active Democrat all his life. A veteran of the Civil war, after returning home he studied law and was admitted to practice in the 70's. He was a member of Mishawaka school board for many years, deputy prosecuting attorney, postmaster of Mishawaka, state senator from St. Joseph county for three terms.

Mr. Bingham's candidacy rests upon his superior and exceptional fitness for the bench by reason of his knowledge of law, his judicial attitude of mind and his reputation for fairness and integrity.

AMUSEMENTS

Every animal lover, and especially the youngsters will find much to enjoy in the act offered by Carleton Emory and his 18 Scotch terriers. This completes the vaudeville bill. The first feature picture to be shown both before and after the variety program, is entitled "The Cowboy and the Lady" which was played originally by Nat C. Goodwin and Maxine Elliott. In its screen form the leading roles are taken by charming Mary Miles Minter and Tom Moore, and a skilful blending of romance and clean fun makes it a picture everyone will like.

VICTOR ARTIST

Two years ago when the Eight Famous Victor Artists appeared here, one of the most popular members of the party was genial Billy Murray and he will be seen again with the organization when it plays a return engagement at the Blackstone theater on Friday evening Nov. 17th, under the local direction of S. W. Pickering and Elbel Brothers.

To those who heard him before, a description of his work is not necessary. For Murray is the kind of a fellow who once seen and heard, is always remembered. His smile seems to be permanent and infectious. He doesn't take him long to find out what an audience likes and to give it to them as they like it.

All of the old artists will return with Rudy Wiedefeld, world renowned saxophonist and an added attraction. The program, it is said, will be entirely new.

The seat sale will open Saturday at Elbel Brothers' Music Store.

ALLEGED LIQUOR DEALER JAILED; RESULT OF RAID

Whisky and Still Found in Operation by Chief Barrows and Squad.

"Double, double, toll and trouble—fire burn and caldron bubble," but an echo of the drippings of moonshine whisky from the still of Adrian De Vos, 223 Center st., was heard by Chief of Police Harry W. Barrows, who, with Captain Beecher and Officers Marchant and Montine, went out to investigate. The investigation resulted in the arrest of De Vos and the confiscation of two stills, 25 gallons of moonshine and a quantity of mash.

According to the story of the raiders, they found De Vos busily operating two 20 gallon stills, as their arrival was unheralded. A search of the basement revealed about 25 gallons of whisky, and good nature was shown. Special police were detained to supervise the fun, but all was quiet and in good order.

De Vos was placed in the local jail and charged with manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor. He will be arraigned in the city court this morning.

Alphus Kerns, who gave his home town as Warsaw, Ind., was placed in jail on the charge of public intoxication. He was arrested by Officer Wright. He was alleged to have been in the alley in the rear of the Pastime pool room, near West st., when found by Officer Wright.

Wrecking Mail Boxes May Mean Prison, Hunter Says

Uncle Sam's postal system makes no allowances for Halloween pranks and a number of cases where mail boxes were torn down or stolen Tuesday night, in various parts of the city, have made the perpetrators of these pranks liable to severe punishment. Postmaster John N. Hunter announced Wednesday.

Although presumably done by young boys, the parties responsible for the removal or detaching of the mail boxes are liable to a fine of not more than $1,000 and not more than three years imprisonment, Hunter said.

"People don't realize what a serious offense it is to trifle with the United States mails or equipment and if our inspectors find the guilty party in these cases reported to us, we will have to act in accordance with federal instructions and deal severely with the offenders."

Zionist "Passes Buck" To Bible in Libel Suit

WAUKESHA, Ill., Nov. 1.—(By I. N. S.)—The Rev. Thomas H. Nelson, upon whose charges Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zion City is under trial here for criminal libel, today took the witness stand and "passed the buck."

Indecent remarks attributed to him by Voliva and his witnesses were no more than quotations for scientific journals, which he used in his lectures throughout the country, Nelson said. One lecture which was criticized, he said, came from the Bible.

The defense in the libel action had brought out alleged indecent remarks of Nelson to prove that Over-seer Voliva was right when, in pamphlets, he had called Nelson a "monstrous liar," "four mouthed blatherkite," and "an old ram."

The case is expected to go to the jury tonight.

TEMPLE

Old-fashioned women are like old-fashioned tunes. We may outgrow them, but we can never forget them. Anne Collins was an old-fashioned woman—she preferred the peace and quiet of their own friends, to the jazz and blare of a cabaret. Her husband on the other hand, grew tired of hearing her sing the "Swanee River" to the accompaniment of her guitar. He had been serenaded so often he felt as if he had married a phonograph. Speed, jazz and frivolity were his forte.

Anne Collins is Florence Vidor, as she is seen in "Woman, Wake Up!" an Associated Exhibitors feature, claimed by those who have seen it to be a scintillating domestic comedy drama of the first year of married life.

"Woman, Wake Up!" is the feature attraction at the Temple, theater for today only.
